DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

1. Claim(s) 1-9 is/are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as not falling within one of the four statutory categories of invention. While the claims recite a series of steps or acts to be performed, a statutory “process” under 35 U.S.C. 101 must (1) be tied to another statutory category (such as a particular apparatus), or (2) transform underlying subject matter (such as an article or material) to a different state or thing (Reference the May 15, 2008 memorandum issued by Deputy Commissioner for Patent Examining Policy, John J. Love, titled “Clarification of ‘Processes’ under 35 U.S.C. 101”). The instant claims neither transform underlying subject matter nor positively tie to another statutory category that accomplishes the claimed method steps, and therefore do not qualify as a statutory process.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section

Art Unit: 2621

351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-6, 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 2005/0276567 by Okuyama et al.

3. Regarding claim 1, a method of detecting a boundary of a content item in a digital video stream, the method comprising the steps of:

- determining (130) an average bit rate of the video stream over a period of time (fig. 5-6, paragraph 0036-0038), and
- detecting (140) a change of the average bit rate indicating the boundary of the content item (fig. 5-6, paragraph 0036-0038).

4. Regarding claim 2, the method wherein the content item is in a digital broadcast video stream (paragraph 0019).

5. Regarding claim 3, the method comprising the steps of: detecting (125) shot-cuts in the content item, and adjusting (126) the period of time to the detected shot-cuts (fig. 5-6, paragraph 0036-0038).

6. Regarding claim 4, the method wherein a moving average of the bit rate is determined (fig. 5-6, paragraph 0036-0038).

7. Regarding claim 5, the method wherein the content item is a commercial (paragraph 0036).

8. Regarding claim 6, the method wherein the digital video stream is MPEG-compressed (paragraph 0028).

9. Regarding claim 8, the method further comprising the steps of:

- obtaining broadcast schedule data indicating a beginning and/or end of broadcasting at least one content item (paragraph 0038),
- verifying whether broadcast schedule data are in accordance with the detected boundary of a respective content item in the video stream (fig. 5-6, paragraph 0036-0038).

10. Regarding claim 9, the method further comprising a step (150) of determining a position of the detected boundary of the content item within a corresponding period of time (fig. 5-6, paragraph 0036-0038).

11. Claim 10 is rejected for the same reason as discussed in the corresponding claim 1 above.

12. Claim 11 is rejected for the same reason as discussed in the corresponding claim 2 above.

13. Claim 12 is rejected for the same reason as discussed in the corresponding claim 1 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

14. Claims 7, 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 2005/0276567 by Okuyama et al.

15. Regarding claim 7, Okuyama discloses the method wherein the content item is MPEG compressed but fails to disclose the content item is in an encrypted digital video stream.

It is noted that the use of encrypted digital video stream is old and well-known in the recording art. Therefore, official notice is taken. Moreover, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a well-known encrypted digital video stream to receive secure digital broadcast video signal for user's security purpose.

16. Regarding claim 13, Okuyama discloses the method wherein the content item is MPEG compressed but fails to disclose a computer program product enabling a programmable device when executing computer program product to function as the device.

It is noted that the use of computer program product is old and well-known in the recording art. Therefore, official notice is taken. Moreover, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a well-known computer program product to function as device.
